5 Reasons to Choose Hitachi Data Protection Suite Powered by Commvault

Hitachi Vantara and Commvault help enterprises establish a secure foundation for cyber resilience and innovation with one solution — built for the speed and scale of business today.

1 Overcome Cyber Resilience Challenges

Hitachi Data Protection Suite, powered by Commvault (HDPS) is purpose-built to help you secure, defend, and recover validated clean data across complex, hybrid cloud environments. Establish a robust foundation for cyber resilience that adapts and scales as your data environment evolves while remaining resilient against ransomware and unplanned disruptions.

2 Maintain Continuous Business

Minimize downtime following cyberattacks or disruption with one unified platform that optimizes recovery of mission-critical data and applications to meet demanding recovery objectives. HDPS eliminates multiple point solutions that silo data protection, increase cybersecurity risks, and drive up costs. Enhance security confidence with AI-enabled tools for threat identification and automated remediation.

3 Reduce Burden on IT and Security Teams

A single, intuitive interface provides visibility into where and how sensitive data is protected and recovered across on-premises, endpoints, and clouds. Automate resilience operations and optimize SLA performance with refined control, comprehensive workload coverage, and full data mobility. HDPS is built to simplify resilience operations and deliver the best TCO for modern data environments.

4 Gain an Edge on Evolving Regulatory Requirements

HDPS helps you prepare for evolving compliance obligations like DORA, NIS2, APRA CPS 230, GDPR, RBI, HIPAA, FedRAMP and GovRAMP with a platform designed to adapt to new demands. HDPS is architected on Zero Trust principles with storage, data plane, and control plane separated to enhance security and resilience.

5 A 20-year Track Record of Success

Together, Commvault and Hitachi Vantara have safeguarded over 1EB of critical data across 86 countries worldwide for businesses of every size.
